

07.12.19

Leader Language : LLQi®

Building Psychological Safety

Central London

7 December, 2019

08:45 - 12:30

£78.00

YOUR PSYCHOLOGICAL SAFETY

70%

of Canadian employees are concerned about workplace psychological health and safety (source: Public Service Canada, 2017)

INTRODUCING LEADER LANGUAGE : LLQI®

This half-day introductory session is all about creating a culture of positivity through psychology, communications, and behaviours.

Through a series of activities, we will explore what goes on below-the-line and the impact of attentive listening ("active listening where we really mean it!")

FOUNDATIONS OF PSYCHOLOGICAL SAFETY

By the end of the morning, you will understand the key principles of the psychology of your communication, and a structured approach as to how to build meaningful conversations.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

Psychological Safety is important in both the corporate and the social context. You may be a director, manager or team member within an organisation.

Likewise, you may be interested in how to better communicate with people within your family or friend circles.

Either way, the way in which you receive and transmit communications determines your impact on those around you.

Through a series of activities, we will explore what goes on below-the-line and the impact of attentive listening ("active listening where we really mean it!")

Central London
7 December, 2019
08:45 - 12:30

www.neilfogarty.com

